

Call for Papers (Deadline 16th April 2010)

Applied microeconometrics conference

Lincoln College, Oxford University

Friday July 2nd July to Sunday July 4th, 2010

You are invited to submit a paper or express your interest in attending an applied micro-econometrics conference in Lincoln College in Oxford University.

The conference will start with a lunch in Lincoln College at 12.00 on Friday July 2nd and run through to lunchtime, Sunday July 4th. Participants who find it more convenient to arrive on Thursday July 1st are welcome to do so.

Submissions for presentation are invited in all areas of applied microeconometrics. We do not require completed papers. Informative abstracts or papers should be sent in PDF format to reach Bonnie Brimstone (bonnie_b@ifs.org.uk) and Martin Browning (martin.browning@economics.ox.ac.uk) by Friday, 16th April 2010.

If you wish to attend without presenting, please let us know by April 16th.

For further details contact Bonnie Brimstone and/or Martin Browning.

We will cover all local expenses such as meals (including two conference dinners) and accommodation (in Lincoln College). After April 16th we will contact all those who expressed an interest in presenting or attending to confirm arrangements.

We have limited travel funds but we can cover the travel costs of anyone who is on the program, if it is required. When booking airfares please keep within the usual economy class constraints.
